

DR. SIHLE MABHIDA

BIO

Dr. Sihle Mabhida is a dedicated emerging researcher currently employed in the Noncommunicable Disease Research Unit at the South African Medical Research Council (SAMRC). With a strong background in research, Dr. Mabhida holds an impressive H-index of 13, supported by over 33 publications. He has played a pivotal role in establishing and leading a systematic review application webinar, which has resulted in more than 15 publications to date. Dr. Mabhida is also actively involved in the FoodSAMSA project, where he manages various work packages and specializes in data analysis and publication production.

In addition to his contributions to research, Dr. Mabhida founded and successfully leads the SAMRC Football Club, as well as the HIV-NCD project within the Noncommunicable Disease Research Unit. Known for his collaborative spirit, Dr. Mabhida is a strong team worker who continues to drive impactful research and projects in his field.

---